SILVER, COPPER AND LEAD.

So many complaints have been made by subscribers of having their paper stolen that THE REPUBLICAN will give a reward of $10.00 for information leading to the arrest and conviction of any person caught stealing this paper from the yards or steps of subscribers.

SILVER, COPPER AND LEAD.

Silver was quoted yesterday at 95¢ per ounce; copper at $13.50 per 100 pounds, and lead at $1.40 per 100 pounds.

WINSLOW, Apache county, is to have a weekly paper, the Leader, with one Lew G. Sheiby at the helm.

McKINLEY is still in the front rank, battling for the American workingman and the Nation's prosperity. He is destined to be Ohio's next Governor.

In view of the rumors that have been flying about concerning the change of the Southern Pacific line to run through this valley, there would seem to be something significant in the telegram that the road is to move its line north of the Gila.

A story which has its basis in clairvoyance and its scene in a newspaper office is printed in the Argonaut of March 23. It is called "An Astral Projection: A Demonstration in Occult Psychology," and is from the pen of E. H. Clough, one of the bright newspaper men whose name is known throughout the Pacific Slope.

It must be confessed that the electioneering ways of the Irish are beyond understanding. The blackthorn stick appears to be considered the most powerful argument in a campaign. In love and war the Irishman is considered preeminent; well, politics is a mixture of both, so Pat's enthusiasm is not to be wondered at.

THE REPUBLICAN is pleased to note the arrival of a daughter into the home of W. L. Vail, of the Tucson Citizen. Mr. and Mrs. Vail lost a charming little girl one year ago, taking much of the sunshine out of their happy home, and we can but trust the new arrival will help to brighten their pathway and make it as bright as of old.

"Howe springs eternal from the human breast." The Florence Enterprise in commendable fealty to its home, in its most sanguine vein remarks: "Without the least detriment to other portions of Arizona, it may be asserted without the fear of contradiction, that the one great city of Arizona will be built upon the pleasant site of Florence, and that its greatness will not be measured by the yardstick of commerce alone, but it will stand preeminent as a manufacturing city and a metropolis whose fame will reach every point of the compass. The day of prosperity is dawning and the people may prepare themselves to enjoy its glorious sunshine."

PENNSYLVANIA has a State prison called, officially, "the reformatory." The convicts there are divided into three classes. The second class are subject to about the same restraint as are the inmates of the average penitentiary. The new comer is placed into this class. If he prove an extra hard customer he is degraded into the lowest class, which means the hardest of labor, perpetual silence and solitary imprisonment. But if the new comer prove attentive to the prison rules and to the studies prescribed, at the end of a year he is promoted to the first class, which brings him greater liberty, better food and treatment and a not joyless existence. At the end of another year or so the deserving first-class man is found employment at some point within the State and is allowed to serve out the remainder of his sentence on ticket-of-leave, the only restriction being that he must each month write fully of himself and habits to the prison officials. The system works well and few of the released convicts ever return to any prison.

There was trouble in Chicago a few days ago over a red flag flying from the roof of an anarchist's house. The rag was quickly torn down by indignant citizens. The occurrence naturally brought out comments upon anarchism and its advocates. It was developed that the fellow who flew the flag and threatened to kill the man who pulled it down had come to America from Bavaria twelve years ago. In the old country he was a member of the poorest class of peasantry, barely existing upon the coarsest of food. During his brief residence in the United States he had hardly taken the trouble to learn the national language, but had amassed a sufficient sum to erect a three-story building and buy the lot upon which it stood. Yet this man sought to strike at the foundation of the government under which he had attained this degree of prosperity. It would seem as though anarchism were a phase of violent lunacy, for there is no semblance of reason in it. Its devotees are usually foreigners of a vicious cast, men who know not the language and hate the customs of the country in which they reside. Criminals by instinct, conspirators by habit, they form a grave danger to the commonwealth. For their accommodation there should be a law enacted that any person found guilty of uttering seditious or treasonable words against the government should be expelled from the Union.

With commendable pertinacity the Tempe News keeps warm a subject that should be in the thoughts of every citizen: "The News again calls the attention of the citizens of this valley to the importance of some immediate action being taken in the matter of securing a wagon bridge over the Salt river. In view of the fact that the railroad will have to construct a new bridge across the river at this place, would it not be a wise plan for our Board of Supervisors to cooperate with the railroad company and have a wagon bridge built in connection therewith? The necessity for such a bridge is becoming more apparent every year and is an absolute need and one that cannot be reasonably overlooked. If the bridge be built in connection with the railroad bridge it could be placed in charge of the company and a moderate toll charged which would keep up the necessary repairs and help to reimburse the cost of construction. We therefore respectfully ask the honorable Board of Supervisors to give this matter their consideration. The advantages of a bridge at this point are well known to every resident of the valley and need not be enumerated. The thing necessary is prompt and energetic action on the part of those most interested—the people."

Says the Yuma Sentinel: "If the government of Arizona wants the prisoners to work, why not set them at it. Yuma has the soil and the water, more, she has tens of thousands of tons of wild hemp and need not import it. Let the prisoners make sacks, bags, rope, twine, cord and clothing from the hemp. Contractors are ready to furnish the plant and use the prison labor, but some 'namby pamby' half love-hick man or woman says: 'Don't let out the prison labor, it conflicts'—With what? the tramps. No more, no less. Put the prisoners at work. The prison is all right."

In selecting representatives to the Constitutional Convention the people of Pima county could not do better than to place Hon. L. C. Hughes, editor of the Tucson Star, among the number. Mr. Hughes has been for many years a newspaper editor in the Territory, and is thoroughly conversant with the wants and needs of the people. Besides this, he was a practicing attorney of no mean ability before entering journalism, and would understand many of the legal phases incident to constitution building. We hope to see Mr. Hughes a member of the convention.

A WONDERFUL BEAN STALK

Equalling the Famous One of the Ancient Nursery Tale.

From the Tempe News.
Messrs. Schultz & Franklin had on exhibition at their office, yesterday, sections of a castor bean stalk that measured eighteen inches in circumference. The stalk, if such it may be called (tree would be a better name), when cut was but five years old from the seed, and grew on the ditch near Mr. Robertson's residence, just opposite the Normal School, where a number of others almost as large may now be seen. The wood is very hard and close grained. In other countries the castor bean is an annual, being unable to stand cold weather and dies early in the fall, and its wonderful growth in this valley is one of the best arguments that can possibly be offered in favor of this as an orange-growing section. Mr. Richard Hare, one of the Kansas gentlemen who have lately purchased land and set out orchards near this town, who leaves for Hawatha tomorrow, will take a section of the stalk with him, as a sample of the wonderful productiveness of our soil and equability of our climate. Messrs. Schultz & Franklin will also send sections of the "plant" to several banks in the East, where they will be placed on exhibition.
